++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Heavy rain, strong winds, and flooding possible in places.

Today:
Heavy rain through this morning will bring a continued risk of flooding to some northern parts, particularly Cumbria. Rain will erratically edge south-eastwards during the day, possibly easing across Cumbria later. Winds will become lighter by the afternoon. Staying mild. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Tonight:
A wet evening and night across most of the region with persistent rain, occasionally heavy. Breezy at times but staying mild. Minimum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Friday:
Outbreaks of rain, locally persistent and heavy during the morning. Drier during the afternoon but still a risk of heavy showers. Cooler with much lighter winds than of late. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Changeable over the weekend with periods of rain, heavy in places. Some drier and sunnier periods at times. Windy with a chance of gales in places. Feeling colder.
